11. Standard Industry Risks of Racing

- Not all yearlings/prospective racehorse proceed to become racehorses.
- There is a significant possibility that any racehorse could injure itself and thereby need a long recuperation period or be unable to race again.
- Racehorses are unlikely to have any significant value at the end of their racing career with the exception of well-bred and /or high performed horses, suitable to become breeding stock.
- Special Risks or factors attaching to this offer: Nill

12. Governing Documents

The Syndicate Rules are attached to this Disclosure Statement and it sets out all the terms of participation in the Syndicate. The syndicate Rules deal with matters including formation and object of the Syndicate, composition and terms of the Syndicate, eligibility of members, transfer of shares, the manager's duties and powers, conduct of meetings, financial administration, basis for distributions and dispute resolution.

WELCOME TO YOUR HORSE -

A share in racing career of this horse offers the opportunity to experience all the excitement and thrills of racing a horse at a fraction of the cost. As a shareholder in the horse, we will provide regular updates on how the horse is progressing. You will also be entitled to all the on-course benefits of a racehorse owner.

Shares will be available in various percentages starting at 5% . Alternatively, you may get a few of your friends or relatives together to buy a share.

The monthly contribution will cover the costs of keeping the horse which will vary, depending on a number of things, for example, how often the horse races, if it needs veterinary treatment, if it needs shoes, etc. An indication of what these costs may be is shown below.

All prizemoney will be shared by the shareholders in proportion to their ownership shares. Any money earned by the horse will be offset against the expenses, with the balance being allocated to shareholders. This horse will be trained in New Zealand, but if the horse is good enough, it could race in Australia.

The syndicate will be governed by the Syndicate Agreement. When the time comes, a decision will have to be made about the horse's future after its racing career is over. The decision will depend on how good the horse was as a racehorse, if it was very good it may be a breeding prospect. If not, it may have to be retrained for another career, perhaps as a riding horse or a sport horse.

A thoroughbred's career can continue in a new discipline after their time in racing. For young horses who just haven't quite made the grade, other options include racing in another district with another trainer or transferring the horse to another trainer locally. If the horse is retired, we will find a new home and potentially a new career for it.
